Het linken van onderzoek aan de praktijk met als doel de implementatie van seksuele voorlichting op scholen in Oeganda te verbeteren

De kwetsbaarheid van docenten

'You may say it at the risk of your job. [...] So we hide in the... [...] safety of the curriculum or the club [...] So you need some insulator, something to insulate you from... the culture and the religious and [...] ... the other pressures that try to inhibit people doing such sexuality education.' (Mannelijke docent, 32 jaar)

Strategieën: doen alsof leerlingen seksueel 'innocent' zijn

I think it is, what should I call it, a false paradise [chuckles], you want to feel... that [...] these kids are still young and they shouldn't indulge in sex, [...] you will look at yourself morally as a failure [...] You have not been a good teacher, you are teaching [...] very sexually immoral or loose young people. ... [...] That's why at the end of the day, we pretend... I haven't seen, I don't know, these kids are still young, they don't have sex... it gives, it's an ego thing, [...] and when you look at it, it's a disadvantage to the, to the students, the children. Because [...] if you had talked to them, it would be better, maybe it would save one girl from getting pregnant. (Mannelijke docent, 32 jaar)

Persoonlijke ervaringen versterken motivatie

'I think I made a mistake, I shouldn't have got... gotten into a relationship at the University, I should have waited! Perhaps if I had waited... I would not have married the person I married [...] if I had got the information, I should have acted differently. So in most of the times my... my information I give to the students is out of my own experience to stop them from... going through with my experience, so even making worse mistakes. [...] I believe... he married me because I got pregnant. [...] That means I married for wrong reasons. So I believe I talk out of my own experience to the children so that they don't make the same mistake.' (Vrouwelijke docent, 43 jaar)

- Hoe ondersteunen partnerschappen het aanbod van educatie in een na-oorlogs gebied?
- Hoe verhoudt het educatieve aanbod zich tot de behoeften van de deelnemers en van de gemeenschap?

*We came and we started this thing under a mango tree...
Amy, she got us when we were learning there.*

Oprichters vrouwenorganisatie:

We started with farming, things like greens, khudra, durra, piripiri. ... Then we built this place and we adapted a section also for teaching.

We founded this place and we do not want it to die and secondly, as we are growing old, our children are supposed to benefit. Then our other question: you come here, we are getting old, how will you help us? (looking at me)

Coördinator:

We had six members ... graduates from Makarere University. So, we tried to open up a computer centre. ... Then the women also came... they were also having their organisation. ... How these organisations came together? That is through Amy.

Sometimes when you have a structure like this, you find that the money cannot be enough and we cannot raise money. ... And others also members, we are also looking: how can they be motivated?

Leden:

We felt in the Ugandan situation, we were really suffering. You go to school you finish and no job. What do we do? Let us join hands and see what we can do. So we decided to come together and form this group, fight for a common cause.

Diaspora:

Since these women most of them are semi-illiterate ... it is better to bring these youth to work together.

The only challenge is now, the sustainability of the centre. ... If they could get a visionary, or a development worker I think it could take it to a higher level.

Lokale overheid:

The majority population of the youth after primary 7, they just remain. They have no jobs. ... The centre on Kaya road? ... It is a FAL, which means Functional Adult Literacy. ... There are very few women who are organised and make something for themselves.

We should look forward. You do your best and we shall also do our best. The women in the subcounties [graduates of the course] should not work in isolation. Koboko as a district is an enabling environment.

We welcome more donors, if they use the rightful procedures to access the community, support activities that are of our need and do not promote ideas and ways of living that go against our traditions.

Youth, education and work in (post-)conflict areas

Empowering young talent to (re)build communities

20 – 30 July 2018
Gulu, Uganda

www.rug.nl/summerschools

> Summer school description <

At first sight, the small town of Gulu in northern Uganda is a lively meeting place bustling with activities. There is a huge market, an expanding university and one can get a good cup of coffee.

The summer school gives participants the chance to get a deeper understanding of the area which was once the battle ground of the infamous Lord's Resistance Army. Young people who were abducted or threatened to be abducted by this army are now struggling to find their way in education and work, also contributing to the development of their community.

The summer school will be oriented by academics from the region and from other (post-)conflict areas. Participants will conduct fieldwork together with Ugandan students. The programme includes the sharing of research results on youth initiatives, field visits, and data collection in and around Gulu town. This will give participants an opportunity to engage with the youth, their dreams and difficulties, but also their resilience and strength in an area where conflict has never been far away.
